OCT, 2022

Stereophile Magazine (US)

"My formative experience of the original Mission 770 in Farad's listening room was echoed by that of Peter Comeau, who was then reviewing for Hi-Fi Answers. In an apparent twist of fate, Comeau is now Mission's director of acoustic design. The highs didn't call attention to themselves, the bass was well-extended and articulate, the stereo imaging was sufficiently well-defined. But all through my time with the Missions, I kept returning to that warm, detailed, and musically involving midrange. That's where the 770 excels, and that's why I recommend it".

"The finish is beautiful and really well done. You can tell these are made in the UK by hand. The finish is immaculate. You look at all the details where all the materials meet each other. They are just so precise and refined. That level of detail you expect out of manufacturing in the UK. Straight out of the gates.. there is a distinct clarity.. With that clarity, you can hear each part of the speaker is doing its job" And for instance, "When listening to female vocals you will hear very single whisper... this is a really beautiful sounding speaker."

LowBeats Magazine (DE) - VERY GOOD

International Audio Group is a giant, one of the most powerful players on the planet when it comes to high-end... If I had one hi-fi wish, I would wake up with these brands in my shopping basket... The workmanship of the Mission 770 is good, the connections are of high quality... In addition, the Union Jack is proudly emblazoned on the back - as a reference to the origin of the new vintage box... the Mission, on the other hand, seems a touch more sober, but is much livelier and quicker to start... especially in the upper bass range, it seems more energetic and precise - which, in connection with its amazing level stability, should certainly lead to delighted faces among many music lovers.

In describing the performance of the Mission 770, Andreas affirms that 'the remake of the 770 is a success... the overall package is just right.' He continues to effuse that 'you get delicatessen from a pure, British production. Added to this is the stroke of genius of a developer who not only designs on the computer but has not yet forgotten how to listen intensively.'

100% WORTH IT! MISSION AUDIO SPEAKERS! ...the 770 deserves your attention! I love our time spent with this speaker and if I wasn't already drowning in speaker reviews I'd have asked to hang on to them just a bit longer ...they have the type of sound that I want in my life and should you have the opportunity to hear them for yourself I bet many of you are going to feel the same! ...these are some of my favourite speakers that we've heard this year. They sound really really freaking good!

The Mission 770 had the consistency of sound... it always sounded the same and the presentation was always enjoyable... these are not crazy room-dependent speakers. They're not super finicky with respect to placement and so I really think that that is the mark of a really really well-designed loudspeaker and the 770s embody that!

AUG, 2022 AUDIO Magazine (DE)

Sound of a miracle with lots of velvety-smooth musicality.

A cosmos of great melodies and a magical mix... The new 770 has it all - first the music details with a tight bass and contour. In addition, again and again, with an inner harmony and warmth.

If only the devil would allow me to have a speaker for a lonely island - this would be it!

AUG, 2022 Stereoplay Magazine (DE)

The Mission 770 was the most complete speaker I had ever heard in this price range. To me, it represents a musical truth that transcends principles such as electrostatics. The Mission represents a musical truth beyond design principles and material capability.

With the combination of the bandwidth, dynamics and mid-range, the modern 770 is once again an exceptional loudspeaker.

Be sure to listen, even if you want to invest significantly more. Perhaps the Mission 770 will open a door to new truths for you too.

Mission 770

JUL, 2022 Hi-Fi+ Magazine (UK)

'It is important to stress that the new 770 is not simply a case of blowing the cobwebs off the original jigs and making the same speaker; a sort of 'coelacanth with a tweeter... The 770 has handled everything I've thrown at it with a good natured civility that flatters them... The combination of its surprising turn of speed and effortless good nature results in a speaker that can be driven fairly hard with no perceivable sense of strain.

Beyond its technical virtues (of which it has plenty), the 770 has spent its time here making me happy; something that, thanks to its appearance, it is almost as proficient at doing when not running as they are in use.

JUL, 2022 Hi-Fi World (UK) - 5 Globes Outstanding Amongst The Best

Crisply clean and detailed, with great bass - but an easy listen... The new 770 is a smoothly accurate, broadband loudspeaker that reaches low. It meets highest modern standards!

MAY, 2022 What Hi-Fi? (UK) - 5 Stars

Excellent alternatives to the established class leaders, even before any nostalgic appeal is considered... We're happy with the stereo imaging too. Once the speakers are placed with care we get a solid and spacious stereo image that's pleasingly uncluttered. It's layered and nicely focussed...

We think these new Mission 770 are right up there with the very best at this price. While the link to the past will be the main attraction for some, for us that's put in the shade by the speakers' excellent all-round performance. The 770 have a range of sonic talents that sets them apart from most rivals and earns them a warm recommendation... Articulate and insightful performance, impressive bass clarity, dedicated stands included in price.

Mission 770

MAY, 2022 AVForums (UK) - Best Buy

The new 770 might best be seen as taking the principle and ingredients of the original and applying the ensuing 45 years of development to them... This is a beautifully made and finished speaker that feels entirely comparable to other European produced speakers in the price range (and comes with stands to boot)... It offers a performance that is utterly unflappable and that combines a spacious, refined and tonally realistic presentation with enough punch, drive and timing to cover off a huge spread of genres without putting a foot wrong... I love these speakers. I've loved them from the moment they came out of the box. There is no other speaker I have tested under £5,000 that I covet like these ones because they make me happy.

I enjoy how they sit in this space and their unashamed retro angle is so far up my alley as to be a point of inevitability that, come the point that I work out where on Earth I'd put them, I want a pair. Then, when it comes to making music, that heft and refinement are perfectly judged to work with the polyglot collection of randomness I call a music library.

What Mission has built is something that - for some of us anyway - nails this so perfectly that the only logical conclusion is to award it a Best Buy.

APR, 2022 Pursuit Perfect System (UK)

The new Mission 770 are pretty awesome and I don't think I've even heard the very best of them yet... [770] totally won me over because they are great speakers to listen to hour after hour. Really enjoyable and at times special speakers to listen to... they have also been great to use to review other components because they have enough quality, clarity and transparency... I definitely wasn't expecting that and that has been massively impressive! ...these are now one of my favourite speakers and I think they're going to blow some audiophiles' socks off!

ZX Series

JUN, 2020 StereoLife (Poland)

Mission chose to improve the quality of workmanship and sound (over previous series)... From the customer's point of view, this is a dream situation. We actually pay little more than for the QX series sets, but we get speakers from a completely different shelf. The ZX-2 is above all very solid, large and quite universal monitors with great possibilities, but also, what can be said here, a good deal. Properly set and complemented by skilfully selected electronics, they will make their owner a lot of fun.

DEC, 2019 Stereo & Video Magazine (Czech) - Excellent

Mission ZX-3 columns feature an exceptionally clear, transparent and more or less balanced sound that is supported by fast, well-defined mid-range bass, but deeper are only indicated. It is certainly not denied that the ZX series is designed primarily for home cinema, where an active subwoofer will do the job and who would be too bothered can choose the ZX-4 tri-band with the same floor plan. It is necessary to commend both the excellent recording space and the thorough separation of individual instruments... Clear sound over much of the acoustic band; rigid baffle.

LX MKII Series

JUN, 2021

AUDIO.de (DE)

Already with the first bar revealed the considerable musicality with which the Mission [LX-6 MKII] went to work with her strong, tends to be rather warm...her tendency to sharpness with louder volume and unknown critical recordings. Visually, the finishes know how to convince. She also plays in the modern furnished, that is sparsely damped living room freely and pleasantly. The choice of amplifier is relatively easy; a lot of watts doesn't need to be with the potential high-efficiency Mission LX-6 MKII!

AVForums (UK) - Best Buy

As hinted to earlier, there is no 're-writing the rule book' here...What has happened is that Mission has kept the pressure on rivals to push as hard as it has. The LX-2 MkII looks smarter, sounds a little better and still costs a very reasonable sum while it does it. There is now an even broader range of speakers to which it belongs too. Given that the original was a Best Buy and this is a better speaker, it only makes sense to say that this talented and invigorating speaker is cut from the same cloth. Well done Mission.

In terms of sound, this is a more lean-in exciting speaker... this sounds like a more accomplished loudspeaker. It has a slightly richer mid bass and there's just more weight in the bottom end... This is definitely a better loudspeaker than the 760i... some people cling to the idea that 'vintage sounds best', as if speaker designers have gone backwards since the 70s and 80s but this is not true, especially in this case!

LX Connect

FEB, 2022

Hi-Fi Choice (UK) - Recommended

Mission has evolved its tremendous LX-2 MKII standmount into a fascinating wireless system... the [LX CONNECT] is another compelling take on the all-in-one system that has some "separate sensitivities" to how it works. It's well specified, a doddle to use and can deliver a level of performance that will keep many more conventional options at a similar price point honest... the [LX CONNECT] sounds bigger and more confident than the passive version does... the Mission offers similar connectivity and, at less than half the price, looks extremely good value... [the LX CONNECT] is rich, engaging sound; flexible spec; well made; easy to use.

DEC, 2021

AVForums - Highly Recommended

Lively, entertaining and detailed sound quality. Well made and well implemented... The LX Connect is a comprehensively specified and very well implemented wireless adaptation of Mission's budget standmount that becomes a very credible soundbar alternative...

As everything that the company makes is superbly finished, the LX Connect feels worth the money... I do think that the decision not to make the Hub a UPnP device is the correct one too. Even if your audio source becomes Spotify routed back down the HDMI ARC from your TV, it lends the Mission a flexibility to receive audio in the manner you wish rather than adapting your requirements to fit.

The result is something that boasts an impressive specification for its asking price... The LX Connect is a great balance of features and performance and comes Highly Recommended.
